FINAL ORDER

¶1 The appellant has filed a petition for review of the initial decision, which sustained his removal. On petition for review, with respect to Charge 1, the appellant challenges the administrative judge's credibility findings, argues that

<sup>1</sup> A nonprecedential order is one that the Board has determined does not add significantly to the body of MSPB case law. Parties may cite nonprecedential orders, but such orders have no precedential value; the Board and administrative judges are not required to follow or distinguish them in any future decisions. In contrast, a precedential decision issued as an Opinion and Order has been identified by the Board as significantly contributing to the Board's case law. See 5 C.F.R. § 1201.117\(c\).

Charge 1 was deficient on its face, and asserts that the agency did not prove its charge because it failed to call necessary witnesses. With respect to Charge 2, the appellant again argues the charge was deficient on its face and that he did not provide incomplete information constituting the misconduct. Last, the appellant challenges the penalty determination, claiming that the administrative judge should have conducted an independent penalty analysis.<sup>2</sup> Generally, we grant petitions such as this one only in the following circumstances: the initial decision contains erroneous findings of material fact; the initial decision is based on an erroneous interpretation of statute or regulation or the erroneous application of the law to the facts of the case; the administrative judge's rulings during either the course of the appeal or the initial decision were not consistent with required procedures or involved an abuse of discretion, and the resulting error affected the outcome of the case; or new and material evidence or legal argument is available that, despite the petitioner's due diligence, was not available when the record <sup>2</sup> The appellant also argues on review that it was an error to rely on his prior disciplinary history because some of those actions were based on misconduct that was not similar to the misconduct alleged in this case and some were over 2 years old. Petition for Review File, Tab 1 at 10. The Board need not consider these arguments because the appellant has raised them for the first time on review and has not shown that they are based on evidence previously unavailable despite his due diligence. Ogbewi-Osadiaye v. Armed Forces Retirement Home, MSPB Docket No. DC-0752-15-0141-I-2, Appeal File, Tab 6; see Alley v. U.S. Postal Service, 100 M.S.P.R. 283, ¶ 5 (2005). Nonetheless, even if we addressed the merits of the claims and discounted the appellant's prior disciplinary history, there is no evidence that the agency would have imposed a lesser penalty. Given the nature and seriousness of the offense as it relates to the appellant's position, Ogbewi-Osadiaye v. Armed Forces Retirement Home, MSPB Docket No. DC-0752-15-0141-I-1, Initial Appeal File, Tab 8 at 6, we would still conclude that the penalty of removal was reasonable, see Martin v. Department of Transportation, 103 M.S.P.R. 153, ¶ 13 (2006) (stating that, in assessing whether the agency's selected penalty is within the tolerable limits of reasonableness, the most important factor is the nature and seriousness of the misconduct and its relation to the employee's duties, position, and responsibilities), aff'd, 224 F. App'x 974 (Fed. Cir. 2007).

closed. Title 5 of the Code of Federal Regulations, section 1201.115 (5 C.F.R. § 1201.115). After fully considering the filings in this appeal, we conclude that the petitioner has not established any basis under section 1201.115 for granting the petition for review. Therefore, we DENY the petition for review and AFFIRM the initial decision, which is now the Board's final decision. 5 C.F.R. § 1201.113\(b\).

NOTICE OF APPEAL RIGHTS<sup>3</sup>

You may obtain review of this final decision. 5 U.S.C. § 7703\(a\)\(1\).
